In 2009 ART 180 ran 14 spring programs three summer programs and 14 fall programs bringing opportunities in creative expression to 328 young people. We shared the children's voices with the community through several program related events. In May ART 180 held its annual Big Show celebration combining the performances and exhibitions of all our programs and drawing a crowd of over 600 to engage with the young people. The program targeting youth in Virginia's foster care system continued into 2009, with another reception at the Governor's Mansion, an exhibit at the General Assembly an exhibition at the public library, and a second book. We also celebrated the second year of our now-annual Jonny Z Festival where we close a city block and celebrate art music and community. At the 2009 festival we unveiled a construction debris recycling container that was painted by youth in one of our summer programs. Our Open Studios Series recognizes our fall program accomplishments and is held in January. In 2009 we held three events in three nights at locations throughout the city giving the public, and specifically the families of our participants, an intimate glimpse of the children's work in progress. Each night drew between 50-100 community members for a total of over 250 people attending. Countless others enjoy our young people's work through our publications website, blog and other smaller opportunities we embrace to ensure our young artists' voices are hear including an exhibition at Barnes & Noble and a new youth gallery at our annual fundraising event Art Karma.	$0		$237,510
